British Hospital and Other Buildings Hit by Nazis

Church, Theater and Warehouse Damaged by Raiding German Airmen

Southwest Town Subjected To Severe Bombardment; Undetermined Number Killed

COMPOSER REFUGEE

Oscar Strauss

Among the refugees arriving in New York aboard the Portuguese steamer Nyassa after an 11-day crossing from Lisbon was Oscar Strauss, Viennese composer, and his wife. Among his compositions are the "Chocolate Soldier" and the "Waltz Dream."

Germans Box Composer

The Germans put into play their technique of boxing the compass over Britain, centering their fire upon the southwest town (which perhaps was Southampton or Plymouth).

Among buildings hit were a church, a motion picture theater, a furniture warehouse and several houses. During the attack a rescue party struggled to free thirteen persons trapped in a damaged building.

Many fires were set off in the city, but it was stated that they were brought under control.

London, too, was under attack, along with areas in the midlands.

Bombers were reported ranging as far as Wales, shortly after London's wailing sirens heralded their approach at 8 p.m. (2 p.m., EST). The first London alarm of the night was over by 9:30 p.m. (3:30 p.m., EST).

Quiet During Day

The night forays followed a day of comparative quiet, during which rescue parties at the important naval base of Portsmouth delved into debris left by Wednesday night's three-hour assault.

Numerous homes were leveled in a raid which the British said was directed at civilian population.

Fifty persons trapped in a theater balcony which collapsed when a bomb fell nearby were rescued. The operator was killed.

Sir Herbert Morrison, home secretary, inspected the damaged areas on his arrival for a speech there and commended the city for its "brave spirit with which it has stood up to the attack."

London belatedly disclosed hits by enemy raiders on two world known landmarks, the Greenwich observatory on the south bank of the Thames and Windsor Castle grounds, west of London.

The air ministry announced British raids on an electro-chemical

Negro Dies on Gallows for His Attack on Girl

Paul Tross Pays for Criminal Assault on School Teacher in Keyser

MOUNTSVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 6 (AP)—Paul Tross, 41, negro chauffeur-handymen, died on the state penitentiary gallows tonight for the criminal attack on a white school teacher at Keyser June 2.

The trap was sprung at 8:50 o'clock and the Keyser man was pronounced dead 11 and one-half minutes later by Drs. O. P. Wilson and R. A. Ashworth.

The execution was originally scheduled for 9 o'clock.

Tross made no statement on the gallows or before being led up the steps as to his innocence or guilt. Warden Leo Callison said the man met death "calmly."

Warden Leo Callison said the 41-year-old negro, who was denied a plea for a fourth reprieve yesterday, told him he had "made peace with God."

The condemned man partook of a last meal of his own choosing which consisted of fried chicken, sweet potatoes, gravy, celery, hot biscuits, jelly, ice cream and cake.

Tross was described as "obviously very nervous," although unyielding in his conviction there would be some unexplained intervention to save his life.

He passed his last hours seated moodily on his bunk in a cell at the prison deathhouse, where he was confined at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

"Tross is not talking, except to say he still has hope," Warden Callison had reported earlier.

The prisoner was moved to the death house when word came that Governor Homer A. Holt "could find no cause for further interrupting the execution of the judgment of the circuit court of Mineral county."

Previous reprieves by Holt had enabled Tross' lawyers to carry on an appeal to the State Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court.

Tross originally was sentenced to die August 12 for the assault at Keyser on June 2. Subsequent dates set for his execution were September 11, October 31 and December 6.

Irene Drago Topples from Witness Chair and Court Is Adjourned

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6 (AP)—Col-

lapsing for the tenth time late today, nineteen-year-old Irene Drago toppled from the witness chair and rolled to the feet of an astonished jury while relating intimate details of her life with the man whom she loved and is charged with murdering.

The embassy was said to have protested to German diplomatic officials in Paris as soon as it learned Mrs. Deegan was in custody. According to reports received here, she was detained after German police had invited her to go to a Paris prison to visit British prisoners. (The American embassy is handling British interests in occupied France.)

"Comfortably Lodged"

The last report received by the state department here on the case was sent from Paris on December 3, at which time the embassy apparently had only indirect word that Mrs. Deegan was "comfortably lodged."

Nazi Woman and Man Leaders Wed To Give Ten Children a Home

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP)—Frau Gertrud Scholtz-Klink, spiritual and political leader of all German women, who holds that marriage and motherhood are "the highest achievements of a woman's life," was married today to August Heissmeyer, a leader of the SS, (the black uniformed Nazi Elite Corps).

A simple announcement in Berlin by Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter said, "we are marrying Dec. 6, thus giving our ten children a joint home." Four of the children are Frau Scholtz-Klink's.

What has become of her first husband, Rudolph Klink, was not disclosed. His brother Otto, an American citizen of Buffalo, N. Y., said he had not known the couple was separated, and now did not know whether Rudolph even was alive.

Frau Scholtz-Klink is 38; Heissmeyer 43; and the combined size of their families by previous marriage was the subject of universal Nazi commendation and applause.

Nazis hailed the Reichs women's leader and the vigorous SS husband as "papa and mama" of an exemplary German family.

The bride, a short-statured blonde, smart without benefit of makeup, and an exemplar of simple dress, is one of Hitler's pioneers.

Prosecutor Jackson charged the slaying was "deliberate and premeditated" and excused all jurors imposed to capital punishment.

Intimate details of Miss Drago's life were given in a private session after she told the court she was "ashamed to tell" them.

As at yesterday's session, which was adjourned early when Miss Drago fainted on the stand, tears were seen in the eyes of several of the nine women jurors.

AMERICANS HELP GUARD ENGLAND

Americans living in England have enrolled in Home Guard units, ready to help fight off any Nazi invasion attempt. Commander of the first mechanized division of American Guards is General Wade Hayes (with map), who served with General Pershing in the U. S. Army in the last war. He is shown with Sir Sersson Brooke, British General, watching maneuvers.

The German marauder leads a chameleon-like existence, carrying "stage props" to change her appearance from day to day. She is even equipped with a telescope funnel to further change her superstructure.

Capt. Arundell, 49, who came here from England to command an American freighter recently purchased by Britain, was bound by admiralty secrecy not to identify the raider, her size, and other data, but he did give this picture:

More Than 10,000 Tons

"She was a decent size man-of-war, much more than 10,000 tons. If you knew her name you would be surprised. Her skipper is a frigate captain (German rank equivalent to commander in the American navy) about forty-two years old.

She carries six guns, four of them broadside and other arms including a huge supply of mines.

"While I was aboard she changed her disguise from a Greek ship to a Brazilian and then a Dutchman. Through special rebuilding and light steel plates she could change her entire superstructure in a short time. A telescopic funnel helped do this.

"Her superstructure was constantly being repainted; in the morning it would be white and before night it would be buff. This gives you an idea of the huge crew she carried."

Italians In Full Flight After Loss of Seaports

Greeks Find Many Tons of War Equipment and Munitions

By MAX HARRELSON

ATHENS, Dec. 6 (AP)—(Saturday)

—Triumphant Greek troops, overwhelming Italian forces at the southern Albanian Seaport of Porto Edda and nearby Argirocastro, immediately pushed on northward on the heels of the retreating Italians.

Previous reprieves by Holt had enabled Tross' lawyers to carry on an appeal to the State Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court.

Tross originally was sentenced to die August 12 for the assault at Keyser on June 2. Subsequent dates set for his execution were September 11, October 31 and December 6.

Some units remained in Porto Edda to list captured Italian armament. Others drove units of the Italian rearguard from hill positions north of Porto Edda on the coastal road. These fascist units sought to protect their legions escaping north toward Chimara, the spokesman said.

In his speech, which was delivered from notes, he did not say how many "gunners, observers and pilots" were being trained.

Later he told reporters, anxious to learn the number of Americans in those classifications, that he did not know.

Addressing 300 members of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents in their thirty-fourth annual convention Brockington said Canada had 36,000 men in the air service under the Commonwealth air training plan.

Italians in Full Flight

The spokesman did not claim the capture of Argirocastro officially. But its fall was expected hourly.

Italians were in full flight toward Tepeleini in that sector after "strong but fruitless resistance," he said.

The Greeks made a belated but welcome discovery in Koriza, the first important Italian city captured in their counter-invasion, it was learned.

Several thousand tons of war equipment and munitions, fifty percent of which can be used immediately by the army corps since last May, he said.

Seven Per Cent Of Canadian Air Force Americans

By MAX HARRELSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—Leonard W. Brockington, counselor to the war committee of the cabinet of Canada, said today that "of all" the men being trained as gunners, observers and pilots in the Royal Canadian Air Force seven percent are United States citizens.

In his speech, which was delivered from notes, he did not say how many "gunners, observers and pilots" were being trained.

Later he told reporters, anxious to learn the number of Americans in those classifications, that he did not know.

By HAROLD M. MILKS

MONTEVIDE, Uruguay, Dec. 6 (AP)—The 20,122-ton British armed merchant cruiser Carnarvon Castle, steaming here to repair the damage done her in a South Atlantic sea battle with a masked German raider, broke her radio silence briefly tonight to report that the Nazis' superior speed had enabled them to escape after a "stern chase."

The message added that the action had been at long range and that the British had expended

"considerable ammunition." Then wireless fell silent without having mentioned the extent of the vessel's damage or casualties.

Studying reports of the action,

Phillips Confers With U. S. Leaders On Aid to Britain

British Undersecretary Presents Balance Sheet; Silent on Debt

By RICHARD L. TURNER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—For an hour and thirteen minutes today, Sir Frederick Phillips, British undersecretary of the treasury, was closeted with high American fiscal officials in the first of a series of conferences which may lead to loans to England to help her fight the Nazis.

Telling reporters as he left, however, that the stage of talking directly about loans had not been reached, Phillips summed up the conversation with a statement that he was presenting a balance sheet on the state of our resources and the cost of supplies in the United States.

No Reference to Debt

A British newsman asked if it included any reference to the unpaid British war debt of the world war, and the British unperturbably replied in the negative.

The other principal in the discussion was Secretary Morgenthau. He and Phillips are old friends, and the latter, arriving at the treasury unaccompanied, proceeded at once to his office. Later they were joined by C. H. S. Pinson, financial attaché of the British embassy, and Daniel Bell, undersecretary of the treasury; Merle H. Cochran, director of the stabilization fund, and Harry D. White, director of monetary research.

Meanwhile, informed quarters said that England was considering the establishment here of several plants for assembling pre-fabricated ships, to replace the English merchant marine's war losses. As outlined, the idea is to put ship construction on a mass production basis, with parts manufactured at various points in the country and assembled at the projected plants.

Will Stay Three Weeks

Phillips said that over the weekend he would prepare new studies for submission to Mongenthau at a second conference on Monday. His plans called roughly, he said, for a three-week stay on this side of the Atlantic, a week here, a week in New York and a week in Canada.

In response to a question, he said he had received no suggestions that he confer with other government officials, or appear before congressional committees.

Phillips indicated that there were many questions to be considered in his future discussions with Mongenthau, and said that thus far no matters of policy had been touched upon. When it was recalled that some here had suggested the sale of British possessions in the Western Hemisphere instead of loans, he said that was outside the scope of his authority, and that he dealt "only in financial matters."

Spanish People Face Political Discipline

MADRID, Dec. 6 (AP)—A new system of political discipline for the Spanish people was inaugurated by Generalissimo Francisco Franco today, with a national syndical law decree to organize the country's productive life.

Franco likewise set into motion the National Youth front which will train the nation's youth from childhood. The feminine section will take charge of girls from their seventh through their seventeenth years; boys will enter the front at the age of seven and progress upward through four grades until they are called for military service at 21.

Franco asserted that henceforth the Spanish people would be organized into a "work militia" and that after the syndical system reached top efficiency, all Spain would be a "gigantic syndicate of producers."

The entire diplomatic corps attended the ceremonial announcement of the laws.

they came "from Texas, Massachusetts, and the far west and everywhere in your nation."

He did not say how many of the 10,000 had been accepted for service. He listed the dominion's war-time army accomplishments as follows:

An army of 167,000 men on active duty.

A reserve of 100,000 men.

Completion of training for 30,000 men a month at the present time. More than 60,000 men already overseas.

Jackson Rebukes Dies in Fresh Argument over Alien Activities

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Attorney General Jackson issued a rebuke tonight to Rep. Dies (D-Tex) for an "announcement from Nashville, Tenn.," but the background of this fresh dispute remained obscure.

Dies, at Chattanooga, Tenn., tonight for speech, told his secretary here by telephone that he made no such remarks as Jackson described, and no amplification of Jackson's statement—a typewritten release sent out by messenger from the justice department—was available.

Jackson's statement described Dies' "announcement" as purporting to relate the result of a conference between Congressman Voorhis and me at which Mr. Dies was not present" and indicated that Dies had referred to a "formula" for cooperation between the justice department and the House Committee investigating the un-American activities, of which Dies is chairman.

Dies Issues Statement

Dies issued a statement through Stripping here at noon today, but the clerk said it apparently was not that to which Jackson referred. This statement by Dies said in full:

"I am deeply gratified that Congressman Voorhis, representing our committee, and Attorney General Jackson have ironed out the difficulties between our committee and the department of justice. I am sure we can all work in complete cooperation and it is necessary that we do so at this time when so much is to be done."

A justice department spokesman also issued a denial, orally, of a statement from a committee source yesterday that evidence of sabotage in west coast airplane factories had been turned over to the department by the committee.

British Cruiser

a naval expert here suggested that the German commander probably was following instructions in fleeing the British, remarking:

"The mission of these raiders is not to give battle to enemy warships but to prey on lightly armed or unarmed merchantmen."

British officials here began arranging at once to provide quick repairs on the Carnarvon castle upon her arrival, expected tomorrow.

One of Group of Ships

It was believed that the German was one of a group of vessels especially equipped before the war began to hound British shipping.

These are powered heavily, armed with the most modern of 69 inch cannon and are understood to be able to outrun anything save a regular warship.

The Uruguayan government has given the Carnarvon castle permission to anchor here, it was learned on good authority, and the news that she was putting in indicated to some naval men that another British ship perhaps had taken up where she left off in the chase of the Nazi vessel.

The fact that for the moment at least there is peril in these waters was illustrated late in the day by the action of the British steamer El Argentino in turning about and tiring up again in the harbor here after having sailed.

The Carnarvon Castle, naval experts here said, apparently dropped the engagement upon being outdistanced by the faster German.

The fight was placed here by informed persons as some 1,000 miles northeast of Montevideo.

It was said unofficially in London that it was 700 miles to the northeast, but either area would be within the security belt.

An interesting phase of the battle was the strong supposition that even as German shells were being pumped at her, the Carnarvon Castle had German prisoners aboard. On Nov. 30, she halted the Brazilian coastal steamer Itape eighteen miles offshore and removed twenty-two passengers detailed by the British to be Germans.

A similar inconclusive engagement occurred last July 29 between the 22,000-ton British merchant cruiser Alcantara and a German raider near the Brazilian island of Trinidad. The Alcantara was hit, was repaired at Rio de Janeiro and put out to sea again. Her men reported she had scored several hits on the Nazi.

The first and far the most dramatic instance of sea warfare in these waters last December led to the scuttling of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee. Engaged by three British cruisers off Montevideo, she fled crippled into the harbor. There, while the Britishers waited outside to renew the fight, she gave up the show and was destroyed by her own men.

Now—13,000 men, 155 ships and soon to have 200 ships.

"But the greatest contribution Canada will make to winning the war will be in the air," he declared.

The Royal Canadian Air Force, he said, already has two squadrons in England with seventy-one German airplanes to their credit.

Brockington said $600,000 had been spent in Canada for aviation material and flying fields, of which more than fifty out of a proposed 100 are already built. Of the total expenditure, he said the dominion had put up $360,000.

on the exact size of the crew and acknowledged that it comprised more than 300 men.

She slipped out of Hamburg April 6 while the British navy was rushing to Norway to fight the German invasion there. My ship was her first victim.

En route from Greenock to Corpus Christi, Texas, last April, the Haxby sighted what appeared to be a Greek ship. A moment later the vessel closed her bows and began firing without warning.

"They killed sixteen of my men, smashed the lifeboats and set the ship on fire before we abandoned her," the bronzed veteran of Scapa Flow in the last war said.

The twenty-four survivors among the Haxby's crew were taken aboard the raider which then laid mines off West Africa, met the Nazi tanker Winnetka at sea for refueling and then proceeded to New Zealand where 230 mines were dropped.

On June 18 the Britons were put aboard a captured Norwegian freighter, the Tropic Sea.

The Tropic Sea was scuttled seventy days later by her German prize crew when a British submarine accosted her off Bordeaux. The Britons were rescued by the submarine and taken to Gibraltar.

that "appropriate action" was being taken by the Paris embassy.

Mrs. Deegan, a granddaughter of a former United States senator from North Carolina, Jeter C. Pritchard, had been employed as a reception clerk in the Paris embassy since 1936. She previously had lived several years in Paris.

On the basis of information from Paris, officials here assumed Mrs. Deegan's detention was linked in some way with the cases of the British prisoners whom she was taken to visit.

In Vichy, capital of unoccupied France, she was reported unofficially to be suspected by German authorities of having assisted British officers to escape from occupied France into the unoccupied area.

The state department, announcing what details it had on the case, said two German civilians, "presumably members of the German secret police," called at Mrs. Deegan's apartment on the morning of December 1 and "invited her to go to the Chereh Midi prison to visit one or more British prisoners."

"This was the second time within a week," the statement continued, "that Mrs. Deegan had been invited by the German authorities to visit acquaintances at the Chereh Midi prison."

Later that day, the state department said, she returned under escort to her apartment to get warm clothing and that evening one of her friends received a message "from an unspecified source that she was comfortably lodged," that she would be unable to report for work the next day but "would doubtless report for duty on December 3." She failed to report then, however.

He said he would arrive about January 1, explaining:

"With the House and Senate in session about three days each week, I can see no necessity for my being there earlier."

Garner has been here since October.

123 Held by Gestapo After Demonstrations

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

VICHY, FRANCE, Dec. 6—The French government disclosed officially tonight that 123 persons had been arrested for Armistice Day demonstrations on the Champs Elysees in Paris and it was learned that a woman employee of the United States embassy still is being held for German questioning in another case—despite American diplomatic protests.

Four demonstrators were wounded in the Champs Elysees, broad avenue of former French splendor which is dominated by the Arc de Triomphe and the tomb of the unknown soldier, but none was killed, the official announcement said.

Those arrested included ninety Lyceen students and fourteen university undergraduates.

Denied were reports which the French said had originated in British broadcasts designed to "divide the country"; that the Germans had tried any of the students before military tribunals or that they had sentenced any of them to capital punishment. It was acknowledged that a private school teacher had been arrested in Paris and charged with spreading such rumors.

The British broadcasting company said on November 28 that eleven students had been killed and 500 sent to concentration camps in Germany; it broadcast that the demonstrators supported General Charles De Gaulle, the "free French" leader.

In the unrelated case of Mrs. Elizabeth Deegan, a clerk in the United States embassy in Paris, it was learned she had been taken into custody several days ago by German military authorities. Unofficially, it was stated that she was accused of aiding British officers to escape from the occupied zone of France.

The first and far the most dramatic instance of sea warfare in these waters last December led to the scuttling of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee. Engaged by three British cruisers off Montevideo, she fled crippled into the harbor. There, while the Britishers waited outside to renew the fight, she gave up the show and was destroyed by her own men.

Policeman Found To Be a Convict

E. E. Sapp Discovered Living under Names of His Dead Brother

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Dec. 6 (AP)—A 55-year-old gray-haired Texan's ten years of masquerading under the name of his dead brother came to an end here today when it was disclosed he was an escaped convict.

Police Chief Tom Carriger said Thomas H. Sapp, Johnson City policeman and former Washington county deputy sheriff, admitted he was E. E. Sapp, wanted by Texas prison authorities after his escape while serving a 99-year sentence in connection with the murder of his first wife.

Sapp's real identity became known, Carriger said, after he was indicted by a federal grand jury at Chattanooga on federal pension fraud charges.

Hunted 10 Years

The Johnson City Press-Chronicle

supplied the police chief with information on Sapp's background which led Carriger to check with Texas authorities who identified him as a fugitive sought for ten years.

E. A. Seale, chief of the Bureau of Identification of the Huntsville, Texas, prison asked Carriger to hold Sapp for extradition.

Carriger said after his escape Sapp assumed the name of his dead brother, Thomas H. Sapp, and came to Johnson City.

After several months residence, he became a deputy sheriff and subsequently joined the city police force. Meantime, he had remarried and is the father of three children.

Sapp Charges Frameup

Sapp admitted his identity to police chief Carriger, but asserted he was "railroaded" to prison through a "frame-up."

"I am willing to return to Texas to face the music," Sapp said today.

"I hope the good reputation I've earned in Johnson City will help me in difficulties in Texas. Everybody connected with the police force here knows I've been honest and a hard worker."

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

The unexplained "resignation" of Axis Marshall Pietro Badoglio, Italy's No. 1 soldier, as army chief of staff stirs conjecture. He stepped out or was forced out at a critical moment in the ill-starred campaign against Greece.

A policy split between Mussolini and Badoglio might turn on just when and how Mussolini's "break Greece's back" pledge is to be fulfilled. If the policy now to be pursued calls for immediate massing of a huge new army in Albania for a winter campaign Badoglio's successor will have his hands full.

Major military operations in the winter-gripped Greek-Albanian mountain region will not be easy for the Fascist army which relies primarily on mechanized equipment.

Even getting a huge new army to Albania will be a heavy job. All Albanian ports and sheltered beaches now are menaced by close-based British-Greek bombers.

Badoglio was drafted to pick up the pieces of an almost stalled Italian attack in Ethiopia and made a job of it that cemented his previously doubtful relations with Il Duce. He did it, however, on his own terms and in his own way.

Time would seem to be essential to renewal of the Italian thrust at Greece from Albania. It is possible that Il Duce, for reasons of personal pride and prestige or even for more serious reasons of wanting Italian morale, can not grant that time to his army command.

The Equivalent of a Declaration of War

WASHINGTON DISPATCHES carry the gratifying news that administration officials appear to be giving little consideration to recently advanced proposals to have American naval vessels convoy British merchant ships across the Atlantic, or to allow American ships to take supplies to Great Britain.

While all our sympathies are with Britain and while sentiment is general that this country should do all it possibly can do in furnishing needed aid for the British, the plain, cold fact obtrudes that anything of this sort is the equivalent of formally declaring war and getting plump into it.

This nation is not ready and its people are not willing to get into the European war. There is general concern over many of the moves that have been made in aiding Britain, there being a belief that they are successively and gradually moving that country into the conflict. Hence the dispatches noted are in a measure reassuring to those who entertain that belief and to those in addition who, while not entertaining it, are positive in the attitude that we should stay out.

Strong pressure is expected in the new Congress, immediately upon its organization, to modify our neutrality law and the Johnson act. There will also be strong opposition to any changes in either, or at least to any drastic changes.

This is a subject of grave concern and calls for the most careful study and the avoidance of any precipitous action based on emotionalism or unwarranted fear. The weighty argument favoring retention of these laws is that so far they have operated to keep us out of the war.

Meanwhile Britain has been obtaining materials from this country and it can continue to do so without additional legislation. As for the question of credits, that is something to be gone into carefully, as appears to be the case at present, and in this the distinction between national and private credits must be kept apart.

The best thing we can do in the present circumstances to aid Great Britain is to go on producing the materials it needs and to speed up that production. Should we plunge into the war, that aid would necessarily have to be reduced, perhaps curtailed altogether, by reason of our own defensive and offensive requirements.

The Puzzle Has a Place in Life

IN GOOD TIMES AND BAD the passion for puzzles survives. It is as old as human intelligence. Crosswords and newspaper contests are the bombed Londoner's solace in his hours in the cellar, and the market for detective novels is reported holding up despite the war.

Of all the publics, the British has been the most voracious for mystery fiction. This has been explained on the ground that murder, gangs and the like are sufficiently remote from the ordinary experience of the law-abiding Briton to give them a romantic quality which is lost on the American, more often acquainted with the actuality. It is said the public for true detective magazines is large in American college towns. In the order and serenity of the academic groves, the philosopher finds a vicarious excitement in accounts of crime and how the monster was tracked to his doom by the efficient officer.

There is a great amount of cash in true detective literature, but the two- or three better periodicals are worth while, not only as sedatives at bedtime, but for the light they shed on the diligence and acumen that go into successful crime detection. The faithful reader is continually amazed at feats of logic by which the everyday policeman, beginning with no more than a scrap of a letter or a paper match or a key on the wrong side of a door, is able with patience and applied intelligence to build up an unassailable case against the engineer of the seemingly perfect crime.

One attains a new respect for men who, with only their senses and good police sense, can take the apparently insoluble puzzle and put it together.

When Gravitation Seems To Fail

GRAVITY is the most familiar phenomenon of human experience and the least understood, even by the wisest of scientists. It is referred to as the "law" of gravity, but it is a law which seems to defy many other laws of the physical world. Laymen speak of gravitation as a "pull," some scientists prefer to call it a pressure, yet neither its pull nor push can be accurately compared to any other. Gravitation operates between any two bodies, yet is not affected in the slightest degree by what lies between them.

So a new mystery concerning gravitation is merely one more. The mystery was reported recently to the American Philosophical Society, by Dr. Henry A. Boorse. He has discovered that at temperatures close to absolute zero the "law" of gravitation appears to be repelled. At about 457 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, liquid helium begins to run uphill. To make matters more confusing, this super-cooled helium flows faster through a small tube than a large one.

This mystery comes close to another, for absolute zero is itself fairly mysterious. By all the signs and speculations of science, matter dies at absolute zero and possibly disappears altogether. If matter is motion, as many scientists say, the freezing out of all motion means the end of matter. Perhaps it is just as well that 219 degrees above this hypothetical zero is as close as the scientists are likely to get.

Should Be on the Quarterly Basis

THIS NEWSPAPER has often advocated the payment of taxes on the installment plan. Especially has it urged the privilege of paying state and local taxes on the basis of the payment of the federal income taxes, that is, quarterly, with the option of paying all due for the remainder of the year at each quarterly period as convenience warrants.

The reasons for this are obvious and are the same that impelled the federal government to make the arrangement, the chief being that it would provide more ready working capital for concerns and individuals. If the people should be required to pay their telephone, electricity, gas and other utility or current expense bills in one lump sum, it would be somewhat of a hardship on many. The same applies to the payments for the upkeep of our chief utility, which is government.

People of Maryland are promised a revision of the unfair state income tax at the coming session of the General Assembly. While the legislators are about the business of making it less burdensome and shearing it of its inequities, they should also provide for the quarterly payment system.

Not an Appropriate Term for Christmas

IN PAST YEARS this newspaper has disengaged the use of the shortened "Xmas" for Christmas, and it has found no good reason for changing its viewpoint.

About the only excuse offered for its use is that it is much easier and quicker to write. But after all, that seems to be excusing nothing more than laziness.

Nobody, of course, has used this imitation of a mathematical formula with any conscious feeling of irreverence, yet when referring to "Xmas" we really commit a downright vulgarity. The X standing alone would confer no more idea of Christ or of Christmas than P. D. Q.

Let us all try to get out of this slovenly method of designating one of the happiest and most significant days of our lives. Let us give Christmas its full and proper spelling and cast the old abbreviation out of yesterday's window to be forgotten for good.

America has enough pepper to last three years. And in that time it ought to get a lot accomplished.

The Browser Makes a Prophecy

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Prophecy: Willa Cather's new novel "Sapphira and the Slave Girl" (Knopf) will be a best seller. The Browser does not say that the novel should NOT be a best seller. Miss Cather is a distinguished practitioner of the art of fiction. She has written some of the greatest of American novels.

The Browser was raised on her "O Pioneers!" "The Song of the Lark," and "My Antonia" and one of the great experiences of his young manhood was reading her "Death Comes for the Archbishop". He profoundsly admires Willa Cather.

Nevertheless, if anyone but she had written "Sapphira and the Slave Girl" it would be mildly praised for the research the author has done for it and its simple and strong style and would be dismissed as a slight and lightly plotted tale.

So the Browser makes a prophecy: But Miss Cather describes is a slave-holding family in the Virginia of 1856—the miller, Henry Colbert, strong and gentle with deep feelings—his wife Sapphira who brought her slaves to the Republican community of Back Creek and kept them until her death—and Nancy the timid and lovely mulatto girl who aroused the jealousy of her invalid mistress. The mistress tortures Nancy undeservedly, plots at her seduction by a graceless white dandy, until at last the good miller connives at the escape of Nancy to Canada.

That's all that happens, except that twenty-five years later, after the death of both her master and mistress, Nancy returns to the South on a short visit.

An artist of less restraint than Willa Cather would make this a fiercely emotional tale. Miss Cather under-emotionalizes her story, lays too great a burden on the imagination of her reader—and disappoints crude fellows like the Browser whose reading talent has been somewhat coarsened by the tough stuff the boys have been writing these last ten years.

So, if he isn't greatly excited by "Sapphira and the Slave Girl," you should understand that it is his own fault.

However, he IS still capable of enthusiasm. As proof, he could write for pages and pages about "Sons of Sinbad" (Scribner), the book that Alan Villiers has just written. Alan Villiers is a writer after the Browser's own heart. He sells the sea of which he writes; is not one of those deep-sea tale-spinners who stays at home and looks on the sails of his imagination.

Mr. Villiers went to the Red Sea and actually lived with the Arab sailors for more than a year before he wrote his book that for the Browser is second in fascination only to Doughty's "Arabia Deserts".

Villiers never spared himself. He sailed on one of the great sea-going ships, living exactly as the Arabs, eating their food, sleeping on a rug under the stars, through the Red Sea, along the coasts of Arabia and Africa and come out of the adventure with a manly respect for his shipmates.

Although other Europeans may find the Arabs dirty, dishonest, avaricious, fanatic, covetous and lawless, Villiers finds that their good qualities far outweigh their defects. They are brave, cheerful, hard-working, and courteous, and although their code different from the white man's they follow it rigidly. And a good man must respect that quality wherever he may find it.

It was a hard life Villiers lived but he drew a rich profit from it, from his months on the long voyage to Africa, from his weeks with the pearl-fishers in the Red Sea, near Bahrain Island where the Standard Oil has its oil fields. Also, he is humble about his knowledge. When he asked Nejdi, the Arab with whom he sailed, if there were any books in Arabic on the Arab ships and sailors, Nejdi replied that no Arab knew enough about that life to write a book on the subject.

Nevertheless Villiers learned enough to write a book that will remain a classic of which Nejdi himself is a distinguished and unforgettable figure.

One of the worst enemies of the Arab sailors is scurvy. The Arabs never hear of vitamins. So Professor Henry Boorsook's "Vitamins" (Viking) would not interest them. Nevertheless it is a very useful and essential book for us weaker vessels who do not feast on rice and dates and whole sheep, and the professor of biochemistry in the California Institute of Technology has produced a popular study of immense value. Says Marshall Maslin.

Gotham Gambling Not the Same as In Canfield's Day

By EDWIN C. HILL

There's one born every minute, as Barnum said, or somebody said for him. Suckers, the gamblers call them—guileless gentlemen, and not a few ladies, who still refuse to believe that the hand is quicker than the eye. Educated dice, shaved cards, wired roulette wheels—all are the usual props of the unhorned gambler.

Edwin C. Hill

This is pertinent to the day's news as Brooklyn's district attorney reveals that one gambling ring alone has trimmed the ingenuous public for four million dollars.

Gambling today in New York city is a petit larceny racket compared to the somewhat magnificent style in which games of chance were conducted back in the days of the magnificent Richard Canfield. Never since his day has there been public gambling high, wide and handsome, as when a member of an historic American family dropped $300,000 in one night's play at Canfield's, or as when the late John W. Gates, playing at Canfield's beautiful Casino in Saratoga, lost $750,000 from midnight until daylight, left the casino, refreshed himself briefly, returned to Canfield's and, before two in the afternoon had won back his three-quarters of a million, with another $250,000 as a souvenir.

Evidence Missing

It was New York's most famous district attorney, Jerome—William Travers Jerome—who raided Canfield's one night with the suddenness of a thunderclap, but when he got inside he couldn't find the slightest evidence of gambling, search him high or search him low. There wasn't even a joker chip in sight.

Mr. Jerome, knowing he was being tricked, was wild. And then one of his men, poking about in a bedroom on the fourth floor of the beautiful house just east of old Delmonico's, here in New York, went to Judge Jerome and reported a curious discovery.

"Chief," he said, "there are only two bedrooms in this house, but they've got enough bed linen stacked in a huge closet upstairs to take care of the Waldorf for a week. There's something very funny about that. I know, because I used to work in the linen room of the Astor. Something is being covered up by all this bed linen."

So they emptied the big closet and began to tap the walls, listening for a hollow sound. Pretty soon they heard what they were listening for. And so with axes and sledge hammers they hammer away and finally broke through the closet wall into a room of an adjoining house, and there, if you please, were all of Mr. Canfield's expensive and beautiful gambling tools, ivory and pearl-encrusted roulette wheels and other fancy layouts. There was the evidence, Jerome acted. Canfield went out of business and with him old-time big gambling faded out of the picture.

But they don't always halt or flee back across the river, those hired killers whose business is smuggling.

Small as it is, the United States Border Patrol deserves to take rank with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Texas Rangers. For there's something very funny about that. I know, because I used to work in the linen room of the Astor. Something is being covered up by all this bed linen."

Caring for First Baby Is Real Job For Young Mothers

Advice of Relatives and Friends Often Does More Harm Than Good

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
I often think about the young mother who gets nervous about bringing up her first baby. It is so precious and she is so eager to care for this infant and guide it, and so fearful that she might make serious mistakes and "mar the tender little thing forever," that she may suffer a vast deal of anxiety.

She knows that her relatives and friends are watching her, and are probably over-generous with advice. They assume she doesn't know anything about a baby, and she feels that they are very critical of her. Even her husband may be critical.

Then she probably has read much and heard many lectures about the training of the baby, some of which are conflicting and confusing, even terrifying.

ENDLESS WORK

In addition to the care of the infant she has her household obligations. Sometimes she hardly knows how she will get through with all her work! If she does not keep everything about the house in order there will be some one to criticize her housekeeping; and she never knows when some of her most fastidious friends might drop in and find everything a mess.

Then she may have her sleep broken at night looking after the baby, hearing every stir he makes, even in her sleep. The more her sleep is shortened or impaired at night, the more impossible her job by day appears to her to be. She grows still more nervous. As a result, it grows harder for her to fall asleep at night, especially when awakened several times in the same night. All too often it may happen that before she is able to master herself and calmly meet the problems with the first baby another will be coming!

Get Husband's Help

Now to be objective, let me entreat the young mother to keep her head. Try first to win your husband's confidence and cooperation. When he helps you with things about the house show real appreciation; so also when he helps in the infant's care. Be sympathetic with his blunders. He will learn. Set the stage so he will do more and more in the baby's care, by night and day.

Go on reading and hearing lectures, accepting only what seems sensible and workable. Listen courteously to the advice of your relatives and friends but use only what you choose to use. Plan what you are going to do and stick to it.

Do make up your mind that you and your baby are many times more important than the house or how it looks. Grow calloused to what others might say or think of your housekeeping. Choose rather that they will discover that you are a good mother of a healthy, happy, well-trained child and do take care of yourself.

Parents wishing to select toys and tools for the children which will be of educational value to them, may have a graded list of them written at the office, 145 Fifth Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Do you think forty minutes of piano practice a day too long for a child eleven years old?

A. I do. Twenty minutes without fail at the same time every day would be safer and more effective for most children.

Q. My daughter eight years old eats her food and hurries out to play.

A. Eat leisurely yourself. Have interesting conversation the child will enjoy. Let your child know she may not leave the table till the end of twenty minutes. Say nothing about her eating fast.

Tough Luck Trail

Fort Hill-Penn Avenue Association Will Give Christmas Dance Dec. 26

THE Fort Hill-Penn Avenue Association will hold a Christmas dance Thursday, December 26 at the Clary Club with music by Jay Van and his Orchestra. There will be entertainment and a floor show.

Lester Hudson is in charge of the dance and is being assisted by William Godday, Virginia Miller, Virginia Gehauf and Scott Shannon.

Church Club Meets

Mrs. Emma Mertens was received as a new member of the Happy Service Club of the First Methodist church, Bedford street, at a meeting of the club Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Earl Hingle, 715 Lincoln street. A social evening was enjoyed.

Refreshments were served by Myra Jane Valentine, Virginia Kirkpatrick and Celeste Hinkle.

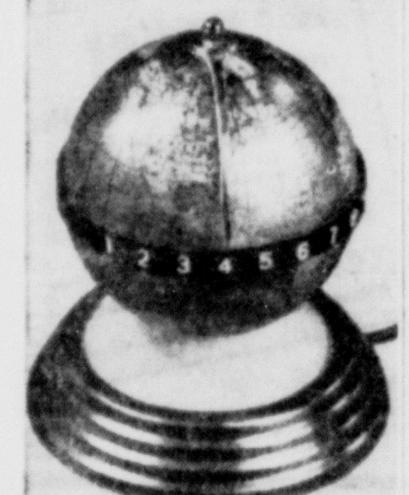

The next meeting will be the annual Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. George E. Baumhahn, Bedford street, at which time class sisters will be revealed and new ones chosen.

Other members present were Mrs. Lula Zembower, Mrs. Bruce Stottler, Mrs. Charles Thompson, Mrs. Baird Wolford, Mrs. Earl Conners, Mrs. Robert Stottler, Mrs. Lou Huffmire, Mrs. Frederick Grogan, Mrs. Clinton Hardman, Mrs. Philip R. Lucas, Mrs. John Beagle, Mrs. George Coleman, Mrs. Valeria McElfish, Mrs. Karl Koerner, Mrs. George Sullivan, and Miss Ora Nove.

"Y" Auxiliary Meets

Readings were given by Mrs. A. E. Kesecker and musical selections by Mrs. Margaret Fay and Mrs. George

Gift-a-Day

AN AROUND-THE-WORLD clock, that tells time in your town and in all the world capitals, is anybody's Christmas gift this year of big international news. It runs by electricity. The globe, finished in aluminum and silver white, is divided into 24 international time zones, indicated by lines running from pole to pole. The time band revolves slowly around the globe.

Personal

Mrs. Thomas B. Finan, Washington and Lee apartments, South Lee street, is visiting her son-in-law,

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

KIT'S TABLE at El Morocco was near the door. It was a little before midnight and her guests had not yet arrived.

Jerry was saying, "What do you say to a flying honeymoon?"

Kit said, "There's a big party coming in. I can't see who it is, Jerry. The wall is in my way."

Jerry turned his head. "Not our friends," he said. "Rio is a beautiful place that I'd like to see."

"I'd rather go north, Jerry. It will be lovely and cool there—in Nova Scotia, I mean—in late—"

"Hi, everybody! We've just been married!"

With everyone else, Jerry turned his head toward the velvet rope where a girl had cried out that single triumphant sentence.

Kit did not move. She didn't even turn her eyes. She couldn't, because it was Mimi Purcell who had spoken.

She couldn't stare at Jerry forever with her eyes frozen. She'd have to turn and look—and smile—at Mimi and Vance.

She turned, her whole body steered for the shock.

After a moment she realized that she would not see him; the triumphant party moved to a table beside hers, and it was Archie Reeves to whom Mimi clung.

It was Reeves who was saying, "We decided to elope at dinner time . . . married at Armonk an hour ago—"

And Mimi's high clear voice: "What's the matter, Kit?" Jerry was saying. "You look ill."

"There's nothing the matter with me," she whispered.

There wasn't. Nothing had happened to her. She was with Jerry, Jerry, who was good for her, Jerry, whom she was going to marry. What difference could it make to her if Mimi Purcell had not married Vance? It was nothing to her.

"But it is!" a small voice in her head cried. "It will matter to Vance. Vance, who is a part of you. Hell do something impulsive and crazy. You can stop him. You can try to stop him."

She said them aloud: "Debutante Wed to Merchant Prince. Mimi Purcell Becomes Bride of Archibald Reeves in Mid-night Elopement."

She drew away from Jerry Semper, who could have given her the world for a plaything, and said, "Jerry, forgive me. That's all I can say, but please let me go without asking me any questions. Please believe that I have to go. Tell the others I am ill. Tell them anything you like, but let me go alone."

Reason returned to her when she was in her car—the she could not find Vance at that hour. She told her chauffeur to take her home.

She had had no plan when she left Jerry. A desire to comfort Vance had motivated her.

Pacing the floor in her own apartment, she knew she could not do that. He wouldn't want to hear the news from her. He would learn it from the morning newspapers and that would be best.

Her heart ached for him, knowing what it was to lose the person one loved.

But Vance did not love Mimi.

She had said to him, "You must be in love."

When a man was in love, he did not laugh and answer lightly, "What is this thing called love?"

No, Vance did not love Mimi. Kit's heart soared, knowing it for a certainty. He loved her world that accepted him on equal terms. He loved the feeling of his own importance. It had given him. His pride would be hurt, but his heart was intact.

Conforted by the thought, Kit fell asleep.

It was late afternoon when she was awakened by a telephone call from the studio.

She put the telephone back on the table by her bed and picked up

W. VA. DEMOCRATS Spend $47,929.30

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 6 (AP)—The State Democratic organization spent $47,929.30 and received $33,588.01 in the 1940 election campaign, the party's executive committee reported to the secretary of state.

Treasurer G. H. Crumpecker of Princeton, in a final accounting, noted that expenditures were represented almost entirely by travel and advertising costs.

Among individual contributors:

State School Superintendent W. W. Trent was credited with $500, and State Treasurer R. E. Talbott, $350.

Employees of the State Road Com-mision made the biggest single contribution, $13,016.47, the report showed.

Other contributions from department employees included:

State tax department, $4,024.25;

conservation commission, $1,042;

liquor commission, $1,148.50; unemployment compensation department, $1,100.

LADIES AUXILIARY MEETS

The newly-organized Ladies Auxiliary to the Midland Volunteer Fire Department held its first social event last evening in the Firemen's Hall, with a Christmas party.

The program, under the management of Mrs. Gertrude Smith commenced with the group singing "Silent Night". Mrs. Helen Manley told about Christmas in other lands. A very effective piano solo was played by Mrs. Catherine Stevens. Mrs. Gertrude Smith then read a very amusing letter from Hans to Fritz.

A skating party will be held at Crystal Park with the proceeds being used by the Drum and Bugle Corps. The date for this event has not yet been set. Boys between the ages of 12 and 15 interested in good citizenship training may come to the Midland School any Friday night.

The troop is rapidly expanding and will soon have 3 full patrols of 8 scouts each.

A group of ladies from Gilmore; namely, Mrs. Maggie Lancaster, Mrs. Jane Plummer, Mrs. Thelma Diehl, Miss Amelia Somerville, and Mrs. Helen Dye, led in the singing of Jingle Bells. Santa Claus then led the grand march, the prize being won by Mrs. Marie Woods. After the program Santa distributed gifts. A well trimmed Christmas tree featured the affair. After the program was completed refreshments were served.

Cook up foods that do not mind waiting, and you will be ready for almost any party that springs up.

Remember your guests probably will welcome variations from sliced-turkey-and-baked-ham menus.

This CHEESE MOLD gives zest to any function. Make it a day ahead. Soak 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin 5 minutes in 1-2 cup cold water. Dissolve over boiling water and cool. Mix together 1 cup crumbled Roquefort cheese, 1 cup white cream cheese, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 1-4 cup chopped green peppers or pimientos, 1-2 cup diced celery and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Add the gelatin.

Thicken the cheese mixture slightly in a cold place and then lightly fold in 2 cups whipped cream and 1-4 cup chopped onions. Pour into a mold (ring suggested) and chill until serving time. Unmold carefully and fill the center with chicken, turkey or crab salad, or center with stiff mayonnaise. The cheese ring may accompany a fruit, fish or vegetable salad.

SPICED PICKLED MUSHROOMS are found on many sophisticated cocktail and buffet tables. Here is your chance. Mix together 2 cups vinegar, 1-4 cup granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 bay leaves, 8 whole cloves, 1 tablespoon bark cinnamon (broken) and 1-4

IT IS NOT LOST TIME

A peculiar thing about the fast-est players is that they usually take more time to plan a hand before playing a single card to the first trick. With their plan made up, they can usually race through the rest of the hand, and thus more than make up the time they seem to have lost at the beginning. Furthermore, they make a bigger percentage of their contracts, through starting out with a sound idea in their mind.

playing the 2, East the K and South the 8—without having stopped to size up his problem. Little did he realize at the moment that this was the crucial mistake which beat his contract. East followed with the spade A and the 5, which South won. He then, striving to manufacture entries to the dummy too late, led the heart Q to the A, so he could start the diamonds with the 10. East let that go, but took the next diamond as well as his two high hearts and his thirteenth in the suit, and later he took the club K, setting the contract three tricks.

If South had counted, he would have had to bring in the diamonds, and needed two entries to dummy to do it. A second one could have been developed by merely playing a spade honor under the K and another under the A. This would have left him the 8 to lead to dummy's 10. Diamonds could then have knocked out East's A, and the heart A would have been the other entry to run the rest of the diamond suit and make the contract.

A Good Neighbor

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 10.

Besides the twelve apostles, Jesus appointed seventy others and sent them out, two by two, to every city and place, to preach the gospel and to heal the sick.

"Into whatever house you enter," He told these men, "first say, 'Peace be to this house.' They were told to eat what was set before them and to heal the sick.

A lawyer sought to tempt the Master, asking Him what he should do to inherit eternal life. Jesus told him to love the Lord his God, and his neighbor as himself.

Visiting Martha and Mary, sisters, Martha complained that Mary did not help her with the work, but Jesus said Mary had chosen the better way. (GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 10:27.)

$10,000 Damage Suit Is Filed In Court Here

H. W. Lease Sues Upper Potomac River Commis- sion and Harold Binnix

A suit for $10,000 damages was filed in circuit court yesterday by Henry W. Lease, of Cresaptown, against the Upper Potomac River Commission and Harold Binnix, of Elkhart.

The commission is an incorporated body which is constructing the Savage River Dam in Garrett county.

The suit contends that a truck driver on the project, was severely injured May 11, 1940, when the truck operated by Binnix, also employed at the dam, struck him and pinned him against another truck. He alleges that both his legs were mashed and that the bones in his left leg were crushed and broken so that he is permanently crippled.

He further alleges he was compelled to undergo great physical pain and mental anguish and that he has been unable to work since he was injured.

All of which is due to the negligence and carelessness of the said defendants he alleges.

Lease contends the truck brakes were defective and that he was exercising care and that the injuries were the result of the operation of a truck with defective brakes and negligence.

Lease is represented by Edward J. Ryan, attorney.

Huffman Held in County Jail for W. Va. Authorities

John Huffman, 38, this city, was arraigned Thursday and committed to the county jail for action of West Virginia authorities on a charge of breaking out of the Ridgeley jail.

Huffman refused to return to Mineral county without extradition papers and later a writ of habeas corpus was filed in circuit court by his attorney, Peter V. Carpenter.

A hearing on the writ was held before Associate Judge William A. Huster and after testimony the petition was denied.

TWO CUMBERLAND MEN WILL SING IN CARNEGIE HALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Edgar Firlie, son of Mrs. W. M. Firlie, and Oliver Rice, son of Edgar W. Rice, 12 Boone street, of Cumberland, will sing with the Westminster Choir of Princeton at a concert by Arturo Toscanini and the NBC Symphony Orchestra December 28 in Carnegie Hall, New York.

With Metropolitan opera stars Kersstin Thorborg, Zinka Milanov, Jussi Bjorling and Alexander Kipnis as soloists the orchestra and choir will present Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis." The performance, which will be broadcast over the NBC network, is for the benefit of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Mrs. Parker O. Griffith, president of the Griffith Music Foundation of Newark, and co-chairman of the women's division of the Conference, is chairman of the benefit concert.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mayor and Mrs. Fiorello H. LaGuardia, Governor and Mrs. Herbert H. Lehman and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith will serve as honorary sponsors. Honorary chairman are Prof. Carlton J. H. Hayes of Columbia University, and Roger W. Straus of New York.

The performance is the third which the Westminster Choir has had with the Toscanini-NBS Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Firlie and Mr. Rice are also members of the Touring Westminster Choir.

Examinations To Be Held For Several State Jobs Commission Announces

The Maryland State Employment Commission announced competitive examinations for several positions in state employment.

An examination for the position of junior social worker on county welfare boards, which is open only to qualified residents of Maryland counties, will be held soon. The position calls for duties under supervision, to investigate applicants for assistance; and to perform related work as required. The starting salary is $1,020 a year.

The position of cook, with the Maryland State Police, is open with the work consisting of preparing meals in one of the sub-stations and other related work as required. The annual pay is $720 with maintenance while on duty.

Examinations for a hospital attendant (mental cases) is to be held with the work consisting of providing care, nursing well-being and comfort of patients in a state hospital.

The pay is $40 a month with full maintenance.

Information concerning these examinations and application blanks can be obtained from the State Employment Commissioner, 22 Light street, Baltimore, Md.

The closing date for receiving applications is December 30, 1940.

Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club Will Hold Turkey And Venison Dinner

A turkey-deer dinner followed by a dance will be held tonight by the Ridgeley Rod and Gun club.

The dinner will be served at 9 o'clock in the Methodist church hall while the dance will be held in the club house, formerly the Ridgeley school building.

Turkeys are being donated by Dr. J. B. Martin, of Ridgeley, and Isadore Kameris, of Cumberland, members of the club, while the venison is donated by Jesse Valentine, who bagged the deer in Pennsylvania.

Orbert Poling, president of the club, will act as toastmaster at the dinner.

The Ridgeley Rod and Gun club now has 400 members and is planning a number of charity affairs for the Christmas season. Richard Biggs is secretary of the club.

Montana Man Becomes III on Street Here

A man who gave his name as Steve Miers, 50, of Butte, Montana, was treated yesterday morning at Allegany hospital after being stricken on Baltimore street, near the B & O. railroad crossing.

Hospital attendants said Miers told them he was treated in a Montana hospital for stomach ulcers. He said he had been living in Midland and Westernport.

Miers was taken to the hospital in the police patrol by Officers J. H. Stitzer and J. W. Smallwood. He was discharged after treatment.

Past Councilor Club Elects Officers

The Past Councilor Club of Allegany Council No. 110, Daughters of America, will meet today at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Leatha D. Wilson, 527 Henderson avenue, to appoint new club sisters for 1941.

In addition, a Christmas party will be held and Mrs. Charlotte Shaffer will be the assisting hostess.

Features of the program will be a stereoptican lecture of the Bible and its influence in many lands by Stanley T. Daniels; reading of the scripture lesson from the Braille by James O'Brien; reading of a familiar passage of scripture in Hebrew, by Solomon Lazarson and special music by the Trinity Methodist choir.

Simon Whips Toles, Wins Right to Bout With Joe Louis Soon

DETROIT, Dec. 6 (AP)—Abe Simon, huge New Yorker, methodically pounded out a decision over Roscoe Toles, Detroit negro, in ten rounds tonight and got a chance to meet Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis in a title fight. Simon weighed 254 pounds, Toles 201.

Making good use of his weight advantage, Simon won the unanimous decision of Referee Sam Hennessy and two judges in Detroit boxing's "revival party" before 5,705 at Olympia. The card, a local venture for Promoter Mike Jacobs, was the first professional show here in months.

After the fight, in which Simon forced the battling Toles and seemed unaffected by a few Toles punches landing flush on the chin, promoter Jacobs said that the New Yorker probably would meet Louis in a title fight here in March.

Keyser Man Hurt In Fall from Porch

A Keyser, W. Va., man, W. W. Davis, 49, of 298 Water street, slipped and fell on his back porch yesterday and suffered a fractured left knee.

He was taken to Memorial hospital and after his injury was treated he was admitted.

State Seeks in Vain To Fill 34 Vacancies In State Hospitals

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6 (AP)—Labor shortages resulting from booming industrial work in Maryland brought public announcement from the state employment commissioner today that he was unable to fill thirty-four vacancies among state hospital attendants.

Commissioner Harry C. Jones said replacements were needed immediately at four state hospitals for the insane but that the department's usual advertising methods had produced only two applicants.

Yesterday Chairman Ezra B. Whitman of the State Roads Commission disclosed the commission's bridge department had been "nearly wrecked" by the departure of skilled engineers and draftsmen to accept higher-paid government and national defense industry jobs.

Regarding the hospital attendants, Commissioner Jones noted:

"Increases in industrial employment affect this class of applicants directly, and the pay of $40 a month and maintenance, coupled with the fact that the hospitals are in country districts—more or less inaccessible—sometimes makes replacements difficult."

The current situation, however, is the worst the state hospitals have ever faced, Jones added.

He pointed out that the attendants performed duties in the insane hospitals similar in some respects to those of nurses in regular hospitals and that short-handed asylum staffs would face serious problems unless the replacements could be made promptly.

Jones said applications for the positions could be made to his office daily.

Years Preceding Manhood Trying Ones for Boys

Adjustment to Self, Family, Teachers and Others
Is Important

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
A wholesome tone pervades the little book A Boy Grows Up, by Harry C. McElroy and Marion Le-Bron (published by Whittlesey House, New York). It is a companion volume to A Girl Grows Up, by Ruth Fedder, which I have had occasion to recommend to my readers several times.

Boys in the teen ages, which is the period with which this book deals, are quite as shy as girls, even those who put on a false front of being tough, and many suffer agonies during this period of adjustment.

Adjustment, as the authors very sensibly assume, means first adjustment to yourself—and in the teen age every year is different;

then adjustment to your family; and then to your neighbors; and then to teachers, fellow-students of work-ers, and the world at large.

Getting off on the right foot in this adventure of growing from boy to man consists first of living fully and successfully the life of a boy and then of moving straight ahead, step by step, from boy associations and activities to those of a man's world. If, as a boy, you can learn to get along with all kinds of people, fit yourself into groups of various sizes and purposes and acquire a clear picture of life around you, you have the surest possible start to moving successfully into the more complicated life of a man.

Mental and Physical Health

In the process, consideration must be made for both mental health and physical health, and the authors of this manual pay attention to both.

Under mental health, hobbies and work are stressed as methods of learning your place in the world and your relation to your environment. Several pages are devoted to lists of recent books on hobbies, special interests. These include camping and woodcraft; knots, ties and splices; shelter and shanties; building things; stamps and coins; cooking and candy making; camp grub; dramatics; drawing; sketching; magic, card tricks, stunts, ventriloquism; gardening; handcrafts of all kinds—such as woodwork, miniature ship building, tin craft; beaten metal work, fun with boxes; tin can craft, Indian craft, plywood, leatherwork, whitening, model airplanes; music; photography; radio and other electrical work; raising pets; science—astronomy, geology, pond life, botany, insects, chemistry, aquaria, birds, turtles, minerals; sports—horseback riding, canoeing, and newspaper writing (which I may say in conclusion I am surprised to find is a hobby). Quite a list. There must be something of interest to everyone.

Under physical health a good section is devoted to food for the growing boy, emphasizing his need for plenty of it. "Many a high school boy would like to eat six meals a day. If he is skinny or excitable, it may be the best thing he can do." Menus and "foods that you can prepare yourself" are described. Work, exercise, sleep, recreation and the new maturity are topics that are discussed in a sensible way.

J. A. W., Detroit, Mich.—"At what age is the menopause usually completed?"

Answer—There is a wide variation in different women for onset and completion of the menopause. In American women of former genera-tions it occurred at an earlier age than at present. Healthy women of today usually do not enter the menopause until the forty-sixth to forty-seventh year. In a consider-able percentage not until the fiftieth year. The duration is from six months to three years.

State Teachers
Will Present
Carol Service

Musical Program Will Be Given Wednesday Evening
in Frostburg

FROSTBURG, Dec. 6.—The annual carol service of State Teachers college, one of the musical highlights of the scholastic year, will be held Wednesday evening, December 10, at 8 o'clock, in the college auditorium.

The service will take the form of a Christmas presentation in keeping with the troubled condition of the world. One of the outstanding features will be a scene from "The Ramparts We Watch," including an impressive rendition of "God Save the King" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Rehearsals for the service are being held daily under direction of Prof. Maurice Matteson who will have charge of the presentation. A silver offering to be received will go to the bundles for British children relief.

The annual meeting of the Frostburg district Boy Scouts of America, for the purpose of electing officers and committee-men-at-large, will be held Wednesday evening, December 10, at 7:15 p. m., in the dining hall of the Gunter hotel.

In addition to an interesting program on scouting, an address will be delivered by Major D. G. Van Deen, deputy regional executive of scouting in region No. 3.

The annual meeting this year will be held without the customary dinner, the plan being to have a dinner and get-together meeting early in the New Year.

Church Has Party

The Rev. F. Reid Isaac, Jr., superintendent of the Strawbridge Home for Boys, Eldersburg, Md., and a former pastor of First Methodist church, this city, was the guest speaker last evening at the annual Christmas party of the local church. Mrs. Howard Kinney presided. The program included devotional by Dr. Charles Elrick, scripture reading by Mrs. Paul Powers, invocation by Mrs. Edgar W. Beckett, vocal by Mrs. Mabel Kemp Durst, accompanied by Mrs. Beckett; poems by Anthony Folk; Christmas story by Ruby Dahlgren; and vocal by Misses Margaret Jones and Tell Connor. Group singing by candlelight was led by Miss Jones. Gifts were distributed.

Frostburg Briefs

Rev. John Rowe, United States Army, stationed at a Texas military post for the past fourteen years, has been transferred to Annette Island, Alaska, being attached to an outfit employed on a new airport which is part of the National Defense program. Rev. Rowe is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Urias Rowe, 148 Ormond Street. His last visit home was five years ago.

At the annual business meeting of the Miss Eva Jeffries Sunday school class of First Methodist church held Monday evening in connection with a Christmas party, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: Mrs. Tache Dunn, president; Mrs. Robert Bachman, vice-president; Mrs. Jack Arnold, recording secretary; Dr. Frederick W. Beckett, treasurer; and Mrs. Clarence Powers, corresponding secretary. There were thirty members in attendance.

Miss Harriet Sires, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Sires, Spring street, and Miss Kathryn Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bowers, Hill street, are recovering from injuries received last week while sleigh riding on New Hope Road. The accident happened when they lost control of their sled and ran into an embankment. Miss Sires had three teeth knocked out and Miss Bowers sustained lacerations of the head which required several stitches.

Postmaster Edward J. Donahoe of the Frostburg post office is urging that all aliens who have not registered to do so before December 10, that date, he states, registration will only be made by appointment between the hours of 6 and 7 a.m. So far about 100 aliens have registered at the local post office.

Two Keyser High School Boys Told To Apologize for Raising Nazi Flag

Grant County
Teacher's Group
To Meet Today

Two West Virginia University Professors to Address Association

PETERSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 6.—The Grant County Teachers' Association will hold its second meeting of the school year in the Petersburg high school gymnasium Saturday, December 7. Teachers who have not yet joined the county association will have a chance to do so at this meeting.

Dr. F. W. Stemple and Dr. H. G. Wheat, West Virginia University, Morgantown, will be the principal speaker and they will discuss general school problems and how they might best be eliminated.

In the afternoon there will be sectional meetings, and following these two meetings all new teachers will meet with County Superintendent C. P. Hott. A meeting of the executive committee of the association and of all committee chairmen will be held.

The Rev. George W. Strobel, will have charge of devotions and Miss Dorothy Idleman will have charge of the High School Glee Club which will sing several numbers during the day.

Christmas Season Opens

Christmas shopping opens here tomorrow and three prizes will be awarded at two o'clock p. m. at the Grant County Bank corner in downtown from ten dollars, five dollars and two dollars and fifty cents to the parties holding the lucky numbers, when various numbers will be drawn from a box by a disinterested person, blindfolded.

Petersburg merchants and business places totaling thirty in number have shown a remarkable cooperative spirit towards this tremendous event "Buy for Christmas in Petersburg," which they are sponsoring.

The Kiwanis club of Petersburg is sponsoring Christmas lighting in residential sections and at entrances to the town. Bright lights blinking in green foliage will greet the Petersburg guest as they enter the town and bid them a cheery "Merry Christmas" as they depart.

Church Services Planned

Holy Communion will be celebrated in the churches of the Petersburg Lutheran Parish Sunday with sermons being preached by the pastor, the Rev. George W. Strobel, at Grace Church, Petersburg, in the morning; at St. Matthews Church, Masonville in the afternoon and at Faith Church in Franklin in the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Advent season is being observed these days, which consists of the four weeks immediately preceding Christmas and are of spiritual preparation for a worthy celebration of the coming of Christ on Christmas.

Honor Roll Announced

Petersburg graded school has just announced the honor roll for the first six weeks as follows: Eighth Grade—Archie Welton, Patricia Seese, Norma Oates, Mary Shook, Betty Carter and Ralph Sites; Seventh Grade—Hilda Dahmer Ruth Clauze, Mary Deadrick Anna L. Clever, Fred Moonau and Gene Burgess; Sixth Grade—Richard Getz, Charles Roby, Robert Hill, Helen Shreve, Robert Clauze and Keith Ours.

New Sewer Line Is Being Laid In Mt. Savage

Junior Auxiliary of Red Cross Makes Plans for Christmas Program

MT. SAVAGE, Dec. 6.—The States Road commission is laying a new sewer line at the upper end of Main street below the Mt. Savage post office. The line connects with the sewer leading from New Row and Church hill and runs into the creek at the other side of the street. Work was begun Wednesday.

Plan Entertainment

The Junior Auxiliary of the Red Cross met last night in the high school auditorium. Final plans were made for the Christmas entertainment to be held Monday evening, December 23, at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium. An original playlet entitled "They Could Be Worse" will be presented. Other features on the program will be songs, recitations, monologues and a tableau. It was decided that no admission price would be set but that donations for charity would be accepted at the door.

Members of the cast will meet Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Miss Catherine O'Rourke. The entertainment is under the direction of Miss Dorothy Blake and Miss O'Rourke. After the play a party for the group will be held at the home of Miss Elsie Cessna after which the club members will go carol singing. Plans were also made at last night's meeting for the distribution of toys among poor children.

KEYSER, W. Va., Dec. 6.—Appearing before Judge of the Circuit Court Robert McV. Drane here today, two Keyser high school seniors who admitted raising the Nazi swastika flag on the staff in front of the Mineral high school Monday night, and a third student, who admittedly was present when the flag was made, were ordered to "make a public apology when you are allowed to return to school."

If you do not like this country, perhaps you had better go to Germany . . . and see how they live over there," the judge told Richard Shepp, 17, and Raymond Brill, 16, who confessed to the "prank" earlier in the week. The third student, also a senior, was Coolidge Harmon, 16, who admitted he was present when the flag was painted and lettered, but was not implicated in its raising. Shepp and Brill were suspended from school pending action of the Mineral county Board of Education, when they confessed Tuesday night to hoisting the Nazi emblem on the American Legion-donated flagstaff. Harmon was not excluded from classes.

Judge Drane said he did not look upon the escapade as a prank, nor did he consider it funny. He regretted the "apparent lack of respect for duly constituted authority," he said.

The judge warned that the next time any of the three students appeared before him, the court would not be so lenient, but would impose prison sentences.

The flag, an old nightgown with a red swastika sewn on it, was lettered with the words: "Today the Fatherland—Tomorrow War."

License Fees Increase

Total amount taken in from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses up to today in Mineral county this year is $12,366—nearly a $2,000 increase over last year's figure. Clerk of the County Court T. T. Huffman announced today.

So far there have been 4,190 licenses sold, Huffman said. They are divided into five classes:

Resident, $3.03; $6.062; tourist, $35; $365; non-resident fishing, $42, $27.10; non-resident hunting and fishing, $24, $3,210, and duplicates, $8, $19.

Last year the amount was $10,456.50, and 1938's sum was $10,266, according to Huffman's records.

LONACONING, Dec. 6.—Doreatha Reed and Harry Dixon were judged the girl and boy winners of the preliminary Tasker G. Lowndes declamation contest, held last night at the Central high school. "That We Might Be Saved" was the girl's selection, while the boy gave "Present War."

From 112 contestants in the school, six girls and six boys were selected to compete last night. The girl and boy winner will now compete in the final contests to be held at Barton high school Friday, Dec. 13, when all the schools of the county will be represented with two contestants.

These contests are sponsored by Tasker G. Lowndes who has held them since 1918. A medal will be given to the two winners from each school next week at the final contest.

Second places were taken by Esther Ruth Stakem, "Mary Stuart," and Calvin James, "Armament for Peace." Second place winners each received a $5 prize from the school.

Other contestants were Mary Goodwin, "Fear God and Take Your Own Part"; Geraldine Ross, "Mary Stuart"; Blair Holmes, "Evils of War"; William Moyer, "Call to Arms"; Wilma Mackey, "The Unknown Witness"; Norma Gordon, "Nydia, the Blind Girl of Pompeii"; Jack Getty, "Spartacus to the Gladiators"; and Richard Dean, "Knute Rockne."

Miss Helen Groves coached the first place winner in the girls and the second place winner in the boys contest. Miss Daisy Cline was coach for the boy winner and second place girl winner. The girl is a member of the junior class, while the boy is a senior.

Judges for the contest were Ethel Mae Fair, Delmar Martin and Rodney Baker, all of the faculty of the Piedmont high school, Piedmont, W. Va.

The program of the evening contained two selections by the high

48 Deer Killed

Reports of two more deer killed during the three-day season which ended Wednesday bring the 1940 total to forty-eight, considerably below pre-season estimates. The low kill was due to poor weather conditions during the last two days of the season as two-thirds of the deer were bagged the first day.

Hunters reporting were Leonard Lee Orndorf, a sixteen-year-old Fabius boy, bagging an eight-point 150-pound buck, and Sheriff P. D. Delawder, Lost City, a six-point 150-pound buck.

A total of five illegal deer has been reported to District Game Protection John Shanholtz for Hardy county.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church had an exhibition booth at the festival in the Grace Methodist church, Cumberland, this evening. The exhibition consisted of canned goods that the local group collected for the Strawbridge home for boys.

Glen McKenzie Of Avilton Is Taken by Death

Pneumonia Is Fatal to Well-Known Garrett
County Farmer

GRANTSVILLE, Dec. 6.—Olen McKenzie, 75, Avilton, died of pneumonia about 6:30 o'clock this morning at his home near here. While he had not been well for some time, his death was entirely unexpected. Mr. McKenzie had lived in this section practically all of his life where he owned and successfully operated a large farm.

Surviving, besides his wife, are two daughters, Rosella and Leora McKenzie, at home; three sons, Bayard A. Head and Orville S. McKenzie, all of the Avilton section; two brothers, Noah McKenzie and Peter McKenzie, near Frostburg, also survive.

Mrs. Durst Dies

Mrs. Maggie Yommer Durst, 69, wife of Charles Durst, died of pneumonia at her home near Salisbury, last night. She had been ill only a few days, although she had suffered from a heart condition for several years. News of her sudden death came as a shock to her relatives and friends in this community.

Mrs. Durst was a daughter of John and Dorothy Hanft Yommer, and is a sister of Mrs. Richard F. Younkin of Grantsville. She had recently visited her sister here. She was born at Gravattville and had lived in or near this community all her life.

Besides her husband, who operates a farm near the Pennsylvania-Maryland state line, Mrs. Durst is survived by one daughter, Lela, at home, and five grandchildren. One son, Homer, died some years ago. Also surviving are one brother, Charles Yommer, Salisbury, and three sisters, Mrs. Robert Hunter, Trafford, Pa., Mrs. List Daniels, Cumberland, and Mrs. Younkin.

Bridge Club Meets

Mrs. J. R. Gnagey entertained her bridge club at a chop-suey luncheon yesterday afternoon at her home at the west end of town. Following the repast two tables of contract were in play. Mrs. F. Fahey receiving the prize for high score and Mrs. Byron H. Bender the floating prize. Other guests included Miss Ethel Broadwater, Mrs. Lena S. Bender, Mrs. Thomas D. Maurer, Mrs. C. O. Bender, Mrs. Betty Keller, and Mrs. T. Olin Broadwater. This was the first time Mrs. Gnagey had entertained the club at her new residence and the group presented her with a gift of hand-made table cloth and napkins.

Ferrell Wins Wings

Friends here have been informed that Thomas R. Ferrell is now a full-fledged airplane pilot. Mr. Ferrell acquired a wide acquaintance in this section, when as an officer of the Maryland State Police, he was stationed here for some time. He left here about two years ago when he was appointed a patrolman on the Baltimore County Police force and assigned to duty in the Dundalk district.

John B. Hart, staff photographer for "The Jeffersonian" published at Towson, took a picture of Mr. Ferrell in flying tugs and vouchers for his ability as a pilot after being taken up for a brief demonstration. They took off from Logan Field, at Dundalk, and after circling the Highlandtown section of Baltimore, pilot-seated bi-plane for Towson where he swooped in a low salute over the Police Headquarters and court house. Flying over Green Spring Valley they returned to Logan Field, all of which was accomplished in about twelve minutes.

In acquiring his pilot's license, Mr. Ferrell marked the achievement of an ambition he had held since boyhood. Chief of Police Grimes gave him permission to take the flying course several months ago and about two weeks ago Mr. Ferrell received his license.

Brief Items

Tucker County Reports 120 Deer Killed

Game Wardens Are Still Receiving Reports of Legal Kills

PARSONS, W. Va., Dec. 6.—Game Protector Charles Calvert states that last year's record kill of 118 legally slain bucks has been broken this year with a total of 120 deer registered killed in Tucker county up to yesterday evening. The deer season ended Wednesday, but registration will go on for the next few days as remote camps of hunters break up camp. Many hunters began hunting for bears, which are plentiful, after the close of the deer season. One party of hunters composed of Leo Arbogast, Earl Griffith, Frank Arbogast, John Jenkins, and Clarence Barr reported killing two large bucks and two large black bears in the Little Blackwater river area, near Parsons. Jenkins killed a 6 point, 150 pound buck while Barr killed a 10 point, 200 pound buck. A large number of does and several spiked bucks were also illegally slain.

Those registering their kill yesterday were John Jenkins, Parsons, 6 point, 150 pounds; Tom Wolford, Davis, 7 point, 140 pounds; B. H. Kile, Sistersville, 5 point, 175 pounds; Henry Huffman, Pendleton county, 3 points, 125 pounds; Ralph Craig, Quick, 7 point, 150 pounds; Norman White, Wiley Ford, 8 point, 180 pounds; Henry Jennings, Hambleton, 8 point, 225 pounds; Earl Caplinger, Elkins, 4 point, 140 pounds; Riedy Sandy, Elkins, 16 point, 180 pounds; K. ## Son-in-Law of Hyndman Woman Killed Hunting

Russell W. Dunlap, of Pittsburgh, Dies In- stantly When Shot

HYNDMAN, Pa., Dec. 6.—Russell W. Dunlap, 408 Melrose avenue, Pittsburgh, well known in Hyndman, particularly among B. & O. railroaders, was accidentally shot and instantly killed yesterday while hunting deer near Fort Matilda, Center county, Pa. He unwittingly stepped into the range of fire of a companion hunter, and was killed by the bullet from a high-powered rifle, one being one of fifteen fatalities reported in Pennsylvania to date, as a direct result of shots fired during the big-game hunting season.

R. W. Dunlap was a retired B. & O. yard conductor, being a veteran of more than forty years service. He is a son-in-law of Mrs. Nellie Dorn, a Schellsburg street resident, and a nephew of Mrs. Charles Dwyer, who resides on Fourth avenue. He leaves, besides his widow, Mary Noel Dunlap, two daughters, Mary Jane, 19, and June, 14, at home with their mother; and a son, Noel, 16, who lives with the three women.

Hunters Are Successful

The Meshak Browning Hunting Club, located at Glencoe, Pa., enjoyed several days of sport at the opening of the deer-hunting season. This organization is made up of Hyndman sportsmen, among whom are Burgess, Lloyd E. Christner, Robert B. Elliott, Charles Allen, Mervin Devore, Albert Wagner and Edward J. Phillipi.

Mr. Christner bagged a fifteen-point buck weighing 240 pounds, and E. J. Phillipi an eleven-point buck weighing 180 pounds. Mervin Devore shot a nine-point buck, 160 pounds. Three smaller deer, numbering one or two does, were also killed by the party.

The Meshak Browning Hunting Club, located at Glencoe, Pa., enjoyed several days of sport at the opening of the deer-hunting season. This organization is made up of Hyndman sportsmen, among whom are Burgess, Lloyd E. Christner, Robert B. Elliott, Charles Allen, Mervin Devore, Albert Wagner and Edward J. Phillipi.

Mr. Christner bagged a fifteen-point buck weighing 240 pounds, and E. J. Phillipi an eleven-point buck weighing 180 pounds. Mervin Devore shot a nine-point buck, 160 pounds. Three smaller deer, numbering one or two does, were also killed by the party.

PARSONS, W. Va., Dec. 6.—Game Protector Charles Calvert states that last year's record kill of 118 legally slain bucks has been broken this year with a total of 120 deer registered killed in Tucker county up to yesterday evening. The deer season ended Wednesday, but registration will go on for the next few days as remote camps of hunters break up camp. Many hunters began hunting for bears, which are plentiful, after the close of the deer season. One party of hunters composed of Leo Arbogast, Earl Griffith, Frank Arbogast, John Jenkins, and Clarence Barr reported killing two large bucks and two large black bears in the Little Blackwater river area, near Parsons. Jenkins killed a 6 point, 150 pound buck while Barr killed a 10 point, 200 pound buck. A large number of does and several spiked bucks were also illegally slain.

Those registering their kill yesterday were John Jenkins, Parsons, 6 point, 150 pounds; Tom Wolford, Davis, 7 point, 140 pounds; B. H. Kile, Sistersville, 5 point, 175 pounds; Henry Huffman, Pendleton county, 3 points, 125 pounds; Ralph Craig, Quick, 7 point, 150 pounds; Norman White, Wiley Ford, 8 point, 180 pounds; Henry Jennings, Hambleton, 8 point, 225 pounds; Earl Caplinger, Elkins, 4 point, 140 pounds; Riedy Sandy, Elkins, 16 point, 180 pounds; K. B. Moler, Bridgeport, 6 point, 165 pounds; C. S. Mitchell, Jane Lew, 4 point, 150 pounds; Lindsey Reed, Fairmont, 8 point, 150 pounds; Leonard Kelly, Thomas, 11 point, 150 pounds; Raymond Cousin, Thomas, 7 point, 200 pounds; Roy Cousins, Thomas, 6 point, 150 pounds; Arvin Sines, Leadmine, 8 point, 225 pounds; D. S. Hamrick, 4 point, 150 pounds; Clarence Barr, Parsons, 10 point, 200 pounds.

College Football Season Will End Today

80,000 Fans Are Expected To See Game on Coast

Notre Dame and Southern California Will Play before Capacity Crowd

NEW YORK Dec. 6 (P)—College football, having ruled the sports world for ten weeks, bows out for 1940 tomorrow with scattered games through the South and Far West. When next the crowds gather for the bowl games it will be New Year's day, 1941.

Tomorrow's biggest throng—probably 80,000—will watch the annual struggle between Notre Dame and Southern California at Los Angeles, with the next largest witnessing the Southwest Conference finale between Rice and Southern Methodist at Houston.

Irish Slight Favorites

In many a past year the game between the Irish and the Trojans at Los Angeles had to be played before the mythical national championship could be awarded or even discussed intelligently, but football's shifting fortunes have made of it just another contest this time.

Notre Dame lost its last two starts against Iowa and Northwestern, while Southern Cal last year's Rose Bowl winner, never got in the Pacific Coast race this season. Notre Dame looks like a last-minute favorite, as a half-dozen Southern California regulars are reported victims of the influenza epidemic in that section.

The Rice-Southern Methodist brawl should prove hot and heavy, as the winner will tie the Texas Aggies for the Southwest Conference title and might—just possibly—receive an invitation to play Fordham in the Cotton Bowl. Southern Methodist has been beaten only by the Texas Aggies this season, while Rice lost to the Aggies and to Tulane.

Tulane Plays Florida

The Texas Longhorns, who turned in one of the year's biggest upsets by snapping Texas A. & M.'s long victory string last week, have made the long trip to Gainesville to play the University of Florida, and it is doubtful that the Gators are strong enough to stop coach Dana Bible's pupils.

Auburn, the only team to tie much less beat Mississippi State in the past campaign, closes its long schedule against Villanova at Montgomery, Ala. South Carolina and the Citadel wind up their affairs at Charleston.

A. A. U. Committee Would Restore Track Titles to Yards Basis

DENVER Dec. 6 (P)—The National A. A. U. track and field committee recommended today that the outdoor track championships be restored to a yardage basis.

The meet has been run under the metric system since 1939. The committee's recommendation came unanimously on a motion by Pius Sober of New York, former quarter-miler at City College of New York.

Boston was recommended by the National Boxing Committee as the site for the 1941 tournament for the third year in a row. The committee also discussed a proposal that the United States be divided into seven districts in choosing entrants for the national meet, instead of each of the forty-one associations sending champions as at present. Hawaii would be the eighth district.

The general convention tomorrow and Sunday must ratify committee recommendations, but usually there is no opposition.

However, the track committee's decision in the yards vs. meters question must be approved by the legislation committee before reaching the convention floor.

Dr. L. W. Olds of Ypsilanti, Mich., committee chairman, and James E. Snyder, Philadelphia, perennial advocate of abolishing the metric system, expressed confidence that yardage supporters would triumph.

Dr. Olds said no site for the 1941 track and field meet would be decided on "for probably two or three months."

Oakland Church Loop Basketball Season To Get Early Start

OAKLAND, Dec. 6 (P)—With the coming of cold weather interest in church league basketball appears to be warming up, with the prospects of increased church attendance for a number who plan to play on the teams.

One of the requirements for church league eligibility is regular attendance at services.

Last year the league was organized rather late in the season but nevertheless there developed much interest in the sport and the season came to a close with three of the four teams in a triangle tie for first.

Bruce Jenkins chairman of the executive committee, is asking the churches to appoint a representative on this committee so that meetings can be arranged within the next few days and a definite schedule worked out for both practice and playing. Last year the schedule of games gave wholesome exercise and recreation to about fifty young people.

THEY FIGURE IN WINTER BASEBALL TRADE NEWS

Baseball takes the sports spotlight as first trading of the winter stove league emanates from the Atlanta, Ga., minor league session. Most important trade sent Roger Cramer of the Red Sox to the Chicago White Sox for Mike Kreevich. The Cincy Reds gave up Billy Myers, shortstop to the Chicago Cubs for Outfielder Jim Gleeson and Shortstop Bobby Mattick. The Dodgers acquired Mickey Owen, Cardinal catcher for Gus Mancuso, veteran receiver, and gave a large amount of cash with the deal. Tony Lazzeri, now 37, was signed to play second base for San Francisco.

Romney Expects To Have Strong Basketball Team

Thirty-Eight Boys Are Trying for Places on Bob Kyle's Quintet

ROMNEY, W. Va., Dec. 6—Coach Bob Kyle is preparing the Romney high school basketball team for the 1940-41 season and followers of the Hampshire county seat team are predicting a fine season for the Kylemen. The season will open Dec. 19 against an Alumni team.

Thirty-eight boys are now trying for places on the squad and five of them are lettermen and eleven have had some experience. Leading candidates are Paul Harrington, Bill Millerson, Elmer Sanders, Edward Long and Loudon Thompson, who made their letters last season.

Among other experienced players are George Heavner, Charles Oates, Adrian Corbin, Bill Michael, Marvin Smoot, Buford Saville, Loy Waggoner, Kenny Martin, Wallace Mauk, Ivan Shanholz, Charles Keckley and Harvey Connor who formerly attended Allegany high school in Cumberland.

Newcomers are John Brady, Merle Hott, John Catelet, Farley Truman, Roger Haines, James Steele, Arthur Ewer, Bernard Hill, Emory Turner, Ray Shingleton, Junior Hamilton, Denzil Kiester, Howard McDonald, Guy Beatty, Bob Timbrook, Frank Martin, Bob Whitford, Allen Swick, Tim Timbrook, Yonley Newhouse and Kenneth Taylor.

Twenty games have been scheduled including 12 in the Potomac Valley Conference. In the conference, Romney will meet Parsons, Franklin, Moorefield, Petersburg, Keyser and Ridgeley in home-and-home battles. Other foes are Mathias, Paw Paw, Harper Ferry, Capon Bridge and Berkeley Springs. The Alumni clash is the only one slated before Christmas. Parsons will be the first scholastic foe for the Kylemen, the Panthers to come here December 31. The schedule:

Dec. 31—Parsons home.
Jan. 3—Franklin away.
Jan. 5—Mathias home.
Jan. 10—Moorefield home.
Jan. 14—Petersburg away.
Jan. 17—Keyser home.
Jan. 21—Paw Paw away.
Jan. 23—Parsons away.
Jan. 26—Capon Bridge home.
Jan. 28—Ridgeley away.
Feb. 4—Mathias home.
Feb. 6—Franklin home.
Feb. 11—Keyser away.
Feb. 13—Ridgeley away.
Feb. 18—Mathias away.
Feb. 22—Berkeley Springs home.
Feb. 25—Moorefield away.
Feb. 28—Paw Paw home.

Vitt Claims Tribe Owes Him $2,500

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6 (P)—The Cleveland Indians disclosed today Oscar Vitt is dunning the club for $2,500 claimed due under the attendance clause in the former manager's bonus contract.

"Oscar thinks we owe him $2,500 and I'm sure we don't," said President Alvin Bradley. "I've suggested that he ask Commissioner Landis for a ruling. If he doesn't I'll probably do myself."

Bradley said the difficulty hinged on interpretation of Parley's succession to control of the club should be welcomed by Yankee fans. In a way—with the tag end of the football season yet to be packed up—it doesn't seem possible, but the ball clubs will be in training less than three months from now and there is a lot of work to be done to get the Yankees ready for another campaign.

The Yankees were a worn and tired array at the close of last season. They didn't quit in their pursuit of the Tigers and the Indians. They simply bogged down. Some of their key players obviously had reached the end of the string—or come pretty close to it. This is a matter of fact had been obvious

Stanford Gets Nod for Most Improved Team

Zooms from Cellar to Top of Coast Conference under Shaughnessy

By BILL BONI

NEW YORK Dec. 6 (P)—There's little doubt that Stanford, which zoomed from the cellar in 1939 to the Coast Conference title and the Rose Bowl in 1940, was the most surprisingly improved college football team of the past season.

The annual Associated Press survey reveals Ohio State just as definitely was the most disappointing team of the year.

Pre-season talk on the Pacific Coast dealt chiefly with Washington and Southern California. Stanford, in its first season under Clark Shaughnessy and with virtually the same material, wasn't expected to prove much more than an interesting experiment.

Yet the Indians came through nine games without loss or tie, while Washington had to be content with second place and Southern California, robbed by graduation of the men who made up its two Rose Bowl teams and further hampered by the early-season loss of Lloyd Phillips key running guard, had one of its poorest years in recent history.

Ohio State Disappoints

Ohio State's case was the direct opposite of Stanford's. Strong enough in 1939 to win the Western Conference crown, the Buckeyes started the '40 season with material that made them seem a sure threat for top national ranking.

Instead they lost four out of eight, and even at Columbus no one is sure just what happened. There has been talk of bucking among the players, of jealousy over the pre-season publicity given quarterback Don Scott. There have been talk of the Buckeyes had to learn over 300 plays, and consequently had almost no time for fundamentals.

But the Buckeyes weren't the only disappointment. Sectionally, other major teams which failed to live up to pre-season buildups (some because those buildups were unwarrantably high) include:

Other Failures

Pacific coast—U.C.L.A., which tied with Southern California for the coast conference lead a year ago and this season won only one out of nine. The reason? Graduation of Kenny Washington, with no back around who could do as many things as that lad could.

East—Syracuse, which never quite recovered from that 40-0 going-over by Northwestern; Princeton, expected to be chief Ivy League threat, a size-up which failed to consider the players again and the lack of a real power running back.

Mid-West—Notre Dame, where poor blocking and tackling were factors in reducing a mid-season "greatest team since Rockne" to a late-season "just another ball club". Indiana, another team which found it takes a running threat to make a pass attack go, Marquette, where lack of reserves offset a high-scoring offense.

South—Georgia Tech, Southeastern Conference co-leader in 1939 but hurt by injuries; Duke, which didn't have the depth; Tulane, where 11 first and second-stringers were lost through graduation and two star guards went out early on injuries.

Southwest—Arkansas and Texas Christian, which also discovered passing alone won't pay off in the tight spots.

Rockies—Colorado, where the players demanded a new coach after winning last year's big Seven race, then turned up with little deception and poor fundamentals this season.

Some Teams Surprised

On the other side of the picture were such surprises as:

South—Florida, off to a slow start under Tom Lieb but late-season winner over Georgia, Georgia Tech, Maryland and Miami and able to hold Tennessee to two long-run touchdowns; William and Mary, settling into Carl Voyle's system in his second year to win the Virginia championship for the first time and finish third in the Southern Conference.

Mid-West—Iowa State, a fast-closing team which gave Rose Bowl-bound Nebraska a scare; Wisconsin, which got a one-period jump on Minnesota.

Several other contests will probably be added to the slate which will end with the annual West Virginia collegiate tournament starting March 10 at Buckhannon.

Coach Louie said that only two holdovers have reported for active duty—Bill Starford, a forward, and Norman Mason, the schedule follows:

Dec. 12—Petersburg, there.
Dec. 14—U. of Baltimore, there.
Dec. 16—Petersburg, home.
Dec. 18—U. of Baltimore, there.
Jan. 18—New Haven, there.
Jan. 20—Morris Harvey, there.
Jan. 22—Gainesville, there.
Jan. 24—National College, home.
Feb. 1—Westinghouse, home.
Feb. 3—Shenandoah, home.
Feb. 5—Westinghouse, home.
Feb. 10—Shenandoah, there.
Feb. 11—Shepherd, there.
Feb. 13—West Liberty, home.
Feb. 15—Westinghouse, home.
Feb. 27—Shepherd, home.
Mar. 1—Gainesville, home.

GETS COACHING JOB

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—There's a little s. m. grumbling in this Atlantic ocean suburb over Stanford's choice of Nebraska as a Rose Bowl opponent.

Not the grousers have anything against Nebraska. Sure, they know all about Nebraska. Everyone knows the Huskers are big and rough and tough from fighting off Indian raids at high noon every day.

The New Yorkers are a little put out because they think their Fordham should have been invited. The opposition to the Nebraska choice is subtle, being confined to such delicate phrases as "Stanford missed the bus in not dating up Fordham," and "Stanford misses chance for a million dollars worth of publicity." But if you can read between the lines you get the idea.

Fordham has a fine football team. It has four backs about as good as you'll find on any team. But the Rams made the mistake of losing to a team pretty well known on the coast. St. Mary's didn't beat a major opponent out there this year, and for a team like that to come east and whip Fordham wasn't exactly a tonic to Fordham stock.

X X X X
The Texas Aggies mistake was in timing. It lost its last game, whereas the Nebraskans lost their first, and to a better team, and by winning the rest left the impression they were getting better all the time and that first defeat was all a mistake.

New Yorkers are more than ordinarily enthused about Fordham this year, as for the first time in quite a while the Rams showed a lively attack in which passing was a big factor. In recent years Fordham has been about as entertaining to watch as a steam shovel.

Aside from the Fordham fans' opinion, the choice of Nebraska is justly popular throughout the nation, from all reports. The South, which had more than its share of Rose Bowl entries, fell right in line with the selection, and the Southwest took the elimination of the Aggies in good grace.

And for the West Coast's benefit, we can say right now that they won't be disappointed in their choice. They'll be entertaining a lively football team made up entirely of Nebraska native sons; rugged lads from the farms and hamlets who go to the state university because they wouldn't think of going anywhere else.

X X X X
We wouldn't care right now to say who will win the game. We have great respect for both teams. We are churning the problem on the minds, but it hasn't reached the butter stage yet.

Aside from meriting the bid on this year's performance, there is an element of delayed justice in the Nebraska invitation. In 1933 the Huskies lost only one game, a one-touchdown defeat by Pitt, and were a popular choice for the Pasadena encounter. They were shouted down by the Columbia backers, although the Lions had been soundly trounced by Princeton.

Columbia, an underdog, defeated Stanford in that 1934 game. Maybe Nebraska, which this time has taken the play away from New York, and also is an underdog. At least at present, can make a ditz mark

Gin pin artists increased their Temperance League lead over the Scotches to three games this week by capturing three games from the Ryes while the runnups were losing a pair to the Bourbons. In the other match the Cordials took a trio of tilts from the Brandies to the Ryes for fifth place. The Brandies' loss dropped them into the fourth spot.

Miss Ursula Hartman paced the Gins, her 445 score shattering her former set record by 39 pins. The Gins also set a new record for game by dumping 657 sticks in the final contest of the evening. High score honors in addition to Miss Hartman, include: B. Boot, Ryes, 407; J. Wood, Scotches, 355; Frank Coyle, Bourbons, 466; M. Wood, Brandies, 357; and J. Brinker, Cordials, 406.

Eight Winners Selected in Lowndes Tests

Four County Schools Select Contestants for Annual Declamation

Eight winners were selected last night in four Allegany county high schools in the preliminaries of the annual Lowndes declamation contest, the finals of which are to be held Friday, December 13, in Barnesburg high school.

Boys and girls winners were decided last night and each will be eligible to compete next week in the finals. Medals, donated by Tasker G. Lowndes, sponsor of the contest, were presented each of the winners at Beall, Barton, Fort Hill and Bruce high schools. Last night's victors will vie with those of Central and Allegany high schools.

Central high school of Lonaconing held its preliminary contest Thursday night while Allegany high school has scheduled its program for next Monday evening.

The school of the winning boy and girl in the championship contest will receive the Lowndes Declamation Contest banner.

Fort Hill Winners

Miss Gene Hazelwood was the winner of the girls contest at Fort Hill high school. Her selection was "A Christmas Present for a Lady" Arnold Robertson, who presented "My Account with the Unknown Soldier" was adjudged best among the five boy contestants.

Other selections were:

Girls: "The Valiant," by Betty Lou Thorpe; "The White Hands of Telham," by Betty Somerlott; "The Gift of the Man," by Betty Kemp; "Bill," by Evelyn Weaver.

Boys: "Where Are Your Enemies," by Kenneth Alderton; "The Faith of Abraham Lincoln," by Richard Fey; "What Shall We Do," by Calvin Launder; "Wheels," by Paul Long.

The judges, all members of the Fort Hill faculty, were the Misses Naomi Foggie, Marie Park and Jean Baer and Mrs. John Blough and Lawrence Haselbeck.

Sponsor is Guest

Tasker F. Lowndes, sponsor of the annual contest, was a guest but did not take part in the program.

While the judges were deliberating selections were given by a quartet composed of Fred Clark, John Weber, Jack Lucas and Jack Breckin.

Miss Neilia Wilson selected the girls and Miss Helen Smith selected the boy declaimers.

Beall Victors

Presenting "The Door Beyond" as her selection, Miss Betty Virginia Wilson, won the girls medal at Beall high school, Frostburg. Aiden Lewis, whose selection was "The Monster in the Public Square" was selected as the outstanding boy declaimer.

Other Beall contestants and their selections were:

Girls: "Mothers of Men," by Betty Hawkins; "Camille," by Imogene Mont; "The Death Disk," by Maxine Agnew, and "Humoresque," by Betty Goforth.

Boys: "Hands," by Eugene McGuire; "The Big Parade," by Hugh Watson; "The Supreme Menace," by Russell Carter, and "The Allies of Ideologies," by Allen Harvey.

Judges were Robert Bachman, manager of the G. C. Murphy Company store; R. K. Karlowa, manager of the Frostburg Department store and H. Reardon Aldridge, manager of the Aldridge foundry, Mt. Savage.

Ten Compete at Bruce

Ten contestants participated in the declamation preliminaries at Bruce high school where Betty Grandstaff and Robert Paxton were declared the winners by the judges. Miss Grandstaff offered "Those of the Gallant Heart" while Paxton's selection was "What Shall We Do, friend?"

Other contestants and their selections were:

Girls: "The Doctor Comes to Mow," by Ethel Carl; "Honey," by Eleanor Fazebaker; "Crimson Roses," by Helen Baughman; "The Corn Husk Doll," by Dorothy Kalbaugh; "Mothers of Men," by Jean Reeves.

Barnhill Is Held On Larceny Charge

Officers Say He Admits Stealing Overcoat and Billiard Ball

James Barnhill, 35, of the Walton hotel, is scheduled to be given a hearing today at 10 a. m. in trial magistrate's court on a charge of larceny.

Detective Robert E. Flynn said Barnhill will be charged with taking an overcoat from the Maryland tap room, North Mechanic street, and two billiard balls from the Savoy Bowling Alleys, Baltimore street. The balls are valued at $2.50 each.

He said Barnhill admitted taking the overcoat and pool balls, but denied stealing $25 from the room of another guest at the hotel. Barnhill is under parole on a previous larceny charge, he added.

Officers said Barnhill told them he was intoxicated when he took the coat. They said he was drunk when arrested Thursday night by Detective Flynn and Officers John G. Powers and Harold P. Kennard.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Van Meter, 13, and Mrs. Catherine Ayers, representative, Miss Catherine Ayers, treasurer; Mrs. Bertie Rank, pianist; Mrs. Dona Gaitrell, trustee, Mrs. Catherine Kerns, representative.

Mrs. Amanda Robbinette received the decoration of chivalry.

SING AT CONFERENCE

The group of boys pictured above are singing that well-known number "Little Sir Echo," at the dinner held last night at the Central YMCA, by the delegates to the eighteenth annual Interstate Older Boys Conference. In the right foreground, wearing glasses, is Florian A. Wilson, local song leader. Harry Rosenmarkle played the piano accompaniment. Ninety-five boys are attending the three-day conference at which delegates from all sections of Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia are present.

Boy Is Injured When Truck Hits His Tricycle

Richard Rudolph, Suffers Abrasions, Lacerations and Several Bruises

A three-year-old South Cumberland boy was painfully injured yesterday afternoon when struck by a truck while riding a tricycle near his home.

Home owners were also advised to lock up their homes when they go downtown to shop and it was thought best to leave a light burning in one of the rooms. "An electric light is the best burglar device we have," said Mr. Boyle.

X-rays will be taken today to determine the extent of his injuries, hospital attendants reported.

William E. Dorsey, of Ridgely, W. Va., driver of the truck, told police the accident was unavoidable. He took the boy to the hospital.

The truck, owned by the Whistle Bottling Company, nearly overturned when Dorsey tried to avoid hitting the boy at Reynolds street and Central avenue, near Long Hill.

A rear wheel of the tricycle was struck, knocking the boy to the ground. Police placed no charges against Dorsey.

Typo Union Will Sponsor Banquet At Local Hotel

William Rose of Philadelphia Will Be the Principal Speaker

William Rose, of Philadelphia, representative of the International Typographical Union, will be the principal speaker this evening at the dinner marking the fiftieth anniversary of Cumberland Typographical Union No. 244, the fifteenth anniversary of the Cumberland Sunday Times and the sixtieth birthday of the Cumberland Free Public Library.

The affair will be held at the Fort Cumberland hotel and will get under way at 7 p. m.

Carl To Be Toastmaster

Frank Lee Carl, of the Evening Times, will act as toastmaster in the absence of Michael F. Pendergast, who has been called to Baltimore on account of the illness of his wife.

Following the dinner there will be a dance with Marty Flynn's Society Ramblers providing the music.

Invocation will be delivered by the Rev. George E. Baughman, pastor of the First Methodist church, and Mayor Harry Irvine will give the address of welcome to the one hundred or more guests expected to attend. Response to the mayor will be made by W. Russell Shanner, president of the local typographical union.

The menu for the dinner will consist of Consommé a la Carl, fiftieth anniversary turkey, soup pasté sauce, Irvine salad, Hell box rolls, planer and mallet cakes, press room cigars, pied form, sixtieth anniversary stuffing, Shanner potatoes, hot dog ice cream, ink devil cigarettes and sample papers.

Souvenir booklets, entitled "Fifty Years of Printing in Cumberland," will be presented the guests. The booklets contain not only the history of the local typographical union but also the history of the Cumberland Sunday Times and the Cumberland Free Public Library.

The exhibit, sponsored this week under the joint auspices of the typographical union and the library, will close today. It is estimated that approximately 2,500 persons will have viewed the printing exhibit in six days. Nineteen hundred souvenir pieces of type with the "Lord's Prayer" inscribed thereon were distributed to visitors. The supply of souvenirs was exhausted yesterday, according to Burland E. DeBoit, chairman of the "Printing Week" committee.
